

The Boulder Association of Jungian Analysts

Study Group for Jungian Psychology

Meeting on nine Saturdays per year (four in the fall and five in the spring), the Boulder Jungian Seminar provides mental health clinicians and professionals in related fields with in-depth study of Jungian thought, framed within a contemporary perspective. The primary approaches to Jungian practice—classical, developmental and archetypal—are integrated within the curriculum, along with a rich mixture of dream interpretation, psychoanalytic theory, mythology, fairy tales, literature and the arts.

This program is recommended for individuals who:

- Want to study Jungian psychology in a warm, collegial atmosphere that encourages deep personal and experiential learning.
- Would benefit from a stimulating learning environment with a faculty of Jungian Analysts and participants from varied professional, cultural and educational backgrounds.
- Colorado therapists who wish to earn professional hours by participating in a continuing education program that will enrich and improve their clinical effectiveness while also providing abundant opportunities for personal growth.
